

THE RITUAL

The four o'clock fire

In deep winter the light fails at four. Rather than fight it with brightness, the slow-living move is to meet it — to make the failing of the light a small daily ceremony rather than a defeat.